DIALOG

Interviewer So, your best friend is Harry, is that right?

Jack I don't really have one best friend. I have a group of good friends. We all like the same things: football, computer games, going to parties, ... meeting girls!

Interviewer And have you got a girlfriend?

Jack Well, yes, I think so.

Interviewer You think so?

Jack Well, I'm going out with a girl called Gina, but we had an argument yesterday.

Interviewer What was it about?

Jack Well, it was her birthday last Monday and, well, I forgot and I didn't buy her a present, so she got a bit angry.

Interviewer I'm not surprised. If she forgot your birthday, how would you feel?

Jack I'd be angry I suppose. What do you think I should do?

Interviewer Well, if I were you, I'd apologize and give her a present. What do you think, Jess? If you were Jack's girlfriend, what would you do?

Jess Me? Jack's girlfriend? You're joking, aren't you?

Interviewer OK, but just imagine you were. What would you do?

Jess Well, I wouldn't be his girlfriend anymore. I'd find a new boyfriend.

Interviewer Really?

Jess Yeah, definitely.

Interviewer And have you got a boyfriend now?

Jess Err, well, yes, but I'm not speaking to him at the moment.

Interviewer Why not?

Jess He told me a lie. He said he couldn't see me because he was studying, but really he was watching football with his friends.

Interviewer Jack, what do you think Jess should do?

Jack I don't think it was a big lie. If my girlfriend did that, I wouldn't mind too much.

Jess Well, I don't care what Jack thinks. For me, people must be honest. That's the most important quality in a person I think. A friend, a boyfriend or a girlfriend should always tell you the truth.
